7. FICSA’S GREATEST ACHIEVEMENTS OVER THE PAST YEARS ......................... 16
Founded in Paris in 1952, the Federation of International Civil Servants’ Associations (FICSA) is a federated group of 30 staff associations/unions from organizations belonging to the United Nations common system. Eighteen staff associations/unions outside the common system have associate status. Fifteen staff associations/unions are consultative members and 22 Federations of United Nations Staff Associations (FUNSA) are observers. The diversity of membership ensures that all staff in the field and at headquarters duty stations have the opportunity to exchange views and information about conditions of service, seek the Federation’s assistance and support when difficulties arise, and organize collective action.

Aims

FICSA fosters the development of the international civil service in accordance with the principles set forth in the United Nations Charter and the constitutions of the specialized agencies.

The Federation:

- Ensures that equitable conditions of service for all staff are maintained at a level that will permit the recruitment and retention of the most qualified people
- Defends staff rights
- Contributes to building a positive image of the international civil service
- As a global staff representative body of UN and other international organizations and agencies, FICSA provides an important forum for safeguarding and improving conditions of service

Council and Offices

A Council of member association/union representatives meets annually to define the Federation’s policies. Each year the Council elects an Executive Committee (consisting of a President, General Secretary, Treasurer, two members for Compensation Issues, a member for Regional and Field Issues and a member without portfolio) and four Regional Representatives who are responsible respectively for implementing the Federation’s policies and representing the Federation.

The Executive Committee draws up the annual programme of work, based on the decisions and recommendations adopted by Council. Standing committees specialize in General Service Questions, Professional Salaries and Allowances, Conditions of Service in the Field, Social Security/Occupational Health and Safety, Human Resources Management, Staff-Management Relations and Legal Questions. In addition, two ad-hoc committees exist during Council sessions to address administrative matters as well as strategic development.
Actions

FICSA’s annual and ongoing programmes of work include the following activities:

- Representing the interests of international civil servants in interagency bodies and legislative organs of the common system
- Coordinating activities at the local level and exchanging information on conditions of service
- Informing all staff on issues affecting their conditions of service
- Organizing training seminars, workshops and working groups on specific aspects of conditions of service

Standing Committee on Conditions of Service in the Field

The FICSA Standing Committee on Conditions of Service in the Field addresses issues relevant to the following:

Safety and security policies are established by the Inter-Agency Security Management Network (IASMN). Issues include: security training for staff; mobility; emergency telecommunications; residential security; road safety and gender consideration in security management.

Field allowances and benefits: These include the hardship allowance, a non-pensionable allowance designed to compensate for the degree of hardship experienced by staff assigned to difficult duty stations, payable to internationally-recruited staff on assignment of one year or more; the additional hardship allowance/non-family service allowance, introduced on 1 July 2011 for staff serving in non-family duty stations as an incentive for staff to undertake assignments at non-family locations; the mobility incentive designed to encourage mobility of staff in general to field duty stations; and the rest and recuperation framework which is viewed as a way for staff to relieve accumulated stress from the difficult and dangerous conditions that characterize non-family duty stations.

Non-HQ salary surveys for locally-recruited staff which should ensure the objective application of the salary survey methodology for establishing salaries for locally-recruited staff including NPOs.

Review and classification of hardship duty stations: FICSA participates in the review and classification of hardship duty stations according to conditions of life and work, security, health, isolation and environmental factors.

Standing Committee on General Service Questions

FICSA Standing Committee on General Service Questions addresses issues relevant to the following:

GS salary survey methodologies including the technical analysis and development of the best method to capture and analyse information about the local salary market.

Workshops including training in using the salary survey methodologies and how best to participate in a Local Salary Survey Committee (LSSC).

Local salary levels including the defence and protection of salaries for all categories of staff in all duty stations.
The FICSA Standing Committee on Professional Salaries and Allowances addresses issues relevant to the following:

Post adjustment questions including participation in the Advisory Committee on Post Adjustment Questions (ACPAQ) to develop the best system to establish post adjustment indices.

Education grant including defending the grant and participating in the review of the level of the grant.

Review of the pay and benefits system including participation in all discussions, recommendations and decisions on every aspect of pay and benefits.

Training including workshops on place-to-place surveys, post adjustment and Professional salaries.

The FICSA Standing Committee on Human Resources Management addresses issues relevant to the following:
